

Castle Hill and Hills
District Agricultural Society
2008/9 Home Brewing
Championship

This year features:

Kit and Clone Competition
Beer and Cheese Competition
Australia vs. Canada
(Roose Trophy)

This year's comp has something for everyone, including a section for kit brewers and for the first time, a beer and cheese competition which will enable brewers, who are also cheese makers to have their cheeses judged professionally.

Of course our open brewing section is there for all types of brewers to enter.

Entries close October 4th 2008

Why enter?

Some brewers may feel that their beers are not good enough for a comp. Entering a comp will give you quality feedback on your brews, including hints as to how to improve.

Who knows, you might even win one of those great show awards for your brewery or mantle piece.

Who are the judges?

Judging panels are made up of experienced brewers including professional brewers and BJCP qualified judges.

Cheese ???

Yes, this year you can submit a home made cheese and a home made beer for a special comp. If you make cheese, but don't brew contact us and we'll do our best to team you up with a brewer

More details on the entry form

Roose Trophy?

This year the top three beers from the open section will be sent to Edmonton, Canada, for a team comp against the Canadians. Your brew could make history!

I'm sold, how do I enter?

Contact your local Home Brew Store for an entry form. Entry forms can also be downloaded from the Hills Brewer's Guild website at

<http://hillsbrewersguild.com>

or the Castle Hill Show website at <http://www.castlehillshow.com.au>

For more information contact: Your local home brew retailer or email the Hills Brewers at info@hillsbrewersguild.com